The iron-clad contractors' bill was up in the House last Friday, and the Senate bill and amendments making immediate appropriations were defeated. One of the amendments, if carried through, would have cost the treasury from $15,000,000 to $20,000,000. The amendment of the committee, referring all the claims to the Navy Department to be adjusted, on the principle of paying contractors for delays or changes occasioned by the Government, and to be reported to Congress for its final approval, was carried.

The celebrated trick horse "Sensation," belonging to the equestrienne, Miss LEO HUDSON, and used in her famous representation of "Mazeppa," met with a singular death in Paterson on Wednesday last. The horse was most wonderfully trained, and was valued at from eight to ten thousand dollars.

German emigration this year to the United States is expected to be larger than ever before. Over 150,000 emigrants are expected from Germany within the next 10 months. The causes, says the New York Herald, influencing this immense movement are, first, the conviction that is gradually spreading among the masses in Germany that our political troubles are over, and secondly the fear of conscription at home. In Prussia this latter feeling operates to such an extent that in some of the villages of the older provinces a third of Newspapers in Constantinople.—A missionary their inhabitants will leave in the spring;

A bill has I een introduced into the British Parliament to unite the several British Provinces in North America, the confederation to be called "the Kingdom of Canada," and the federal legislature to be known as the Parliament of Canada, with a "Senate" and a House of Commons. A democratic senate must answer, until lords and peers can be created for the purpose. A royal representative is to preside over the new kingdom. His title is to be Governor-General, and he is to have provincial Lieutenant Governors under him. Our Northern friends would fain find fault with this scheme, yet know not exactly how it can be shown that the affair is any business of theirs. The "Monroe Doctrine," so convenient on former occasions, will hardly prove adequate to the emergency even upon very considerable stretching. In the case of the French intervention of Mexico, and the establishment of MAXIMILIAN's Empire, the aforenamed Monroe Doctrine was made to do yeoman's service. The Kingdom of Canada is even more distasteful to our Down-East brethren than was the Empire of Mexico, but how is the "interpellation" to be managed? Why, on the pretence that the scheme is hostile to a large portion of the residents of British America. Lower Canada, says the New York Herald, has pronounced against it in unmistakable terms. Nova Scotta and the other island provinces do not favor the idea at a l. Newfoundland Rupert's Island, Prince Edward Island, British Columbia, and the vast Northwest Territory, are not to be included in the confederation at pres-

Wars and rumors of wars everywhere. Tumults, insurrections, rebellions, revolutions, in whatsoever direction we turn our eye. Even Belgium, naturally one of the most quiet and peaceable countries in Europe, as it is one of the most insignificant, has its insurrection. The miners of the coal districts are in revolt. Troops have been sent to "quiet" them; but it is said, although much blood an ominous silence. Column after column is filled with French politics, but not a word about the insity, has been appointed to succeed the late Pro- surrection at home. So in the Chambers now in session at Brussels. The ministry is "interpelvey. His appointment was recommended by a lated" about the cattle plague, and long and spiritlarge number of the scientific men of the country ed debates are held on that very interesting subject; but thorough silence reigns in the Parliament, as also on the part of the ministry, in so far as relates to the said internal broil. A letter in claim to the Italian Government for the restoration | the London Evening Standard, of the 8th ultimo, written at Mons, contains some reflections on this subject, decidedly unfavorable to the Government of Belgium. As far as we can infer, the difficulty seems to be a kind of "strike." Wherever troops are massed, all is quiet—the streets are deserted, and not a voice is heard. But the laborers indemnify themselves in the districts remote from those occupied by the military. The whole valley of the Sambre and Meuse is one scene of agitation; and if these men are not promptly brought back (says this correspondent) to their work, hunger will make these ignorant and hungry masses very dan-

LIBERTY.

Apropos of Washington's Birthday, and the reflections naturally suggested on the occasion, in view of the present state of public affairs in America, the Round Table has the following paragraph: ica, the Round Table has the following paragraph:

The liberty which means the tyranny of the many, the oppression of intelligence by ignorance, the shackling of trade for the aggrandizement of corruptionists, the imposition of taxes a hundred-fold more one out than those which cost England her colonies, the elevation of boors, blacklegs and jail-birds to Congress, the robbing of the public treasuries by organized bands of plunderers, the abasement of literature, and the prostitution of the press to the level of the vulgar rabble, and the wholesale degradation of society through the poithe press to the level of the vulgar rabble, and the wholesale degradation of society through the poisonous influences of riches gained by crime, was not the liberty that Washington and his associates fought and died for, and not the liberty which, if they now survey it, their noble spirits can approve. Such liberty as this may not be, as Algernon Sidney said man's liberties should not be derived ney said men's liberties should not be, derived "from kings;" but assuredly it is not, as he said it should be, "from God or nature."

ELECTIONS in three States are now at hand. New Hampshire leads off on the second Tuesday in March. A Governor, three Congressmen, a Railroad Commissioner, members of both Houses of the Legislature, and some county officers, are to be chosen. WALTER HARROMAN is the Republican, and JOHN G. SINCLAIR the Democratic candidate for Governor. The vote last year was as follows:

THE NEW CONGRESS.—When it assembles on the fourth of March (Monday next), the new Congress will be without members from Connecticut, Califor nia, Kentucky, Rhode Island, New Hampshire and Tennessee. The present Congress has one hundred and eighty-four members; twenty-nine of these seats in the new Congress will be vacant on the fourth of March, by reason of the States above named not yet having held their elections. Of comse the Southern States will, as now, be unrepresented. It is supposed that after a session of a week or two, an adjournment will take place until the middle of May, by which time elections will have been held in Connecticut, New Hampshire

In this city, five or oven two years ago, it was a rare occurrence to see a newspaper in the hands of any one of the thousands of natives passing up and down the Bosphorus or Golden Horn in the steamers which here take the place of the street cars of Boston and New York. Now it is almost as common a sight as in those cars. N asboys throng our thoroughfares with their papers-in Turkish, French, in Greek, in Armenian, &c. JOHN BUNYAN AND LEIGH HUNT; the Tinker-poet and the Poet-tinker: or how "Pilgrim" is esteemed in Vanity Fair.

"What great poet ever wrote his poem in prose? or where is there a good prose poem to be found? The Pilgrim's Progress indeed has been called one, and undoubtedly Bunyan had a genius that tended to make him a poet, and one of no mean order, and yet it was of as ungenerous and low a sort as was compatible with so lofty an affinity, and this was the reason why it stood where it did. He had a craving after beauty, but not enough of it in himself to echo to its music."

[Leigh Hunt's "Imagination and Fancy." enough of it in himself to echo to its music."

[Leigh Hunt's "Imagination and Fancy."

"The author of Telemachus had a sense of the beau tiful, but was prevented by the "cold and feeble spirit of devotion" froin giving it expression. He (Fenelon) was not one who, if he had had a wife and children, would have run away from them as Bunyan's hero, did to get a place by himself in Heaven."—Ibid.

ABSTRACT OF LECTURE. (1:) Defence of the hero of the Pilgrim's Progress.
(2:) The Pilgrim's Progress as a prose poem.
(3:) Bunyan's conceptian of the heroic character compared with that of Homer.
(4:) The Pilgrim's Progress as an allegory. Bunyan compared with Spenser; contrasted with Milton; his affinities with Shakspeare.
(5:) Bunyan as a writer of the English language. His book the only instance of written speech. His doggrel verses not inconsistent with his poetic endowments. His want of learning no misfortune to the literary world.
